The Interface is using cookies. Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer by websites that you visit. They are widely used in order to make websites work, or work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site. Cookies are typically stored on your computer's hard drive. Information collected from cookies is used by us to evaluate the effectiveness of the Interface and analyze trends. The information collected from cookies allows us to determine such things as which parts of the Interface are most visited and difficulties our visitors may experience in accessing the Interface. With this knowledge, we can improve the quality of your experience on the Interface by recognizing and delivering more of the most desired features and information, as well as by resolving access difficulties.

We may use third party service providers, to assist us in better understanding the use of the Interface. We, or our service providers, will place cookies on the hard drive of your computer (or use similar technologies) and will receive information that we select that will educate us on such things as how visitors navigate around the Interface. This information is aggregated to provide statistical data about our users' browsing actions and patterns, and does not personally identify individuals (however, see below information on Ethereum wallet addresses). This information may include:

- Computer or mobile device information,
- Website usage information, such as:
 - Page views,
 - Account changes (i.e. connecting a wallet)
 - Button clicks,

- Input form changes,
- Errors.

The information and analysis so collected will be used to assist us in better understanding our visitors' interests in our Interface and how to better serve those interests, as well as help ensure secure use of the Interface for all users. If you want to avoid using cookies altogether, you can disable cookies in your browser. However, disabling cookies might make it impossible for you to use certain features of the Interface. Your use of the Interface with a browser that is configured to accept cookies constitutes acceptance of our and third-party cookies.

2.2 Google Analytics

The Interface uses Google Analytics, a web analytics service provided by Google Inc, 1600 Amphitheatre Parkway, Mountain View, CA 94043, USA. You can deactivate Google Analytics with a browser plug-in, which can be found here.

Google Analytics also uses cookies. These allow Google Analytics to analyze the use of the Interface. The information collected based on cookies about the use of the Interface (including your IP address) is usually transferred to a Google server in the USA and stored there.

Google uses the collected information to evaluate the use of the Interface, to write reports for us in this regard and to provide other related services to us. You can learn more at support.google.com/analytics.

9 ADDITIONAL DISCLOSURES FOR DATA SUBJECTS IN THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC AREA AND THE UNITED KINGDOM

9.1 Roles

The General Data Protection Regulations in the European Economic Area and the United Kingdom (“GDPR”) distinguish between organizations that process personal data for their own purposes (known as “controllers”) and organizations that process personal data on behalf of other organizations (known as “processors”). We act as a controller with respect to personal data collected as you interact with the Services.

9.2 Lawful Basis for Processing

The GDPR requires a “lawful basis” for processing personal data. Our lawful bases include where: (i) you have given consent to the processing for one or more specific purposes, either to us or to our service providers or partners; (ii) processing is necessary for the performance of a contract with you; (iii) processing is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation; or (iv) processing is necessary for the purposes of the legitimate interests pursued by us or a third party, and your interests and fundamental rights and freedoms do not override those interests. Where applicable, we will transfer your personal data to third parties subject to appropriate or suitable safeguards, such as standard contractual clauses.

9.3 Your Data Subject Rights

If you are a user in the European Economic Area or the United Kingdom, you maintain certain rights under the GDPR. These rights include the right to (i) request access and obtain a copy of your personal data; (ii) request rectification or erasure of your personal data; (iii) object to or restrict the processing of your personal data; and (iv) request portability of your personal data. Additionally, if we have collected and processed your personal data with your consent, you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, we cannot edit or delete information that is stored on a particular blockchain. This information may include transaction data (i.e., purchases, sales, and transfers) related to your blockchain wallet address and any NFTs held by your wallet address.

To exercise any of these rights, please contact us via our email or postal address listed in the “Contact Us” section above and specify which right you are seeking to exercise. We will respond to your request within thirty (30) days. We may require specific information from you to help us confirm your identity and process your request. Please note that we retain information as necessary to fulfill the purpose for which it was collected and may continue to retain and use information even after a data subject request in accordance with our legitimate interests, including as necessary to comply with our legal obligations, resolve disputes, prevent fraud, and enforce our agreements.

If you have any issues with our compliance, please contact us as set out in the “Contact Us” section above. You also reserve the right to lodge a complaint with the data protection regulator in your jurisdiction.
